Freedman is president of the Old '76 company and Odenthal was superintendent of the distillery at the time of the alleged illegal removals. A number of permits asserted to have been found in the safe of the distillery office, Director Collins says, bore his forged signature.

Six Lexington men are defendants in a matter involving nine men indicted in connection with the alleged theft of about seventy-five barrels of whisky from the Old Judge distillery near Frankfort early in September. The Lexington men under indictment in connection with the case are Thomas C. Barnes, Andy Settle, Charlie Shelton, Johnnie Hampton, Artie Stewart and William K. Nunnelly. Other defendants in this and allied cases are Dave Clark (Cincinnati; Sam Peters, Frankfort, and H. Bixler, of Frankfort. The latter two were guards at the Old Judge distillery and were indicted on a charge of malfeasance in office. All these indictments were returned at the recent term of court at Frankfort and the cases were continued and transferred to Richmond.

The alleged conspiracy case against A. E. (Busk) Brady, L. Howard and R. Morton, Covington, growing out of their arrest and the seizure of 410 gallons of red whisky and several automobiles following a bloodless battle at Perryville several weeks ag, is also scheduled for

CALIFORNIA VOTES DRY

Again California has provided the election surprise of the nation. Believed a stronghold of the wets, the state has passed the dry column, giving the prohibition forces their greatest victory of the recent election. By a referendum the people of the state have voted in favor of a State prohibition enforcement law, which patterned after the Volstead act, is claimed by the wets to be even more strict in its provisions. On the face of returns from half the state the measure appeared to be doomed to a two to one defeat. But the early returns were from the northern part of the state where San Francisco recorded a 60,000 wet majority.

WARNING ODOR TO

Yale Scientists Experiment to Find Mixture That Will Give Notice of Escaping Fumes.

SEEK ANTIDOTE FOR ASPHYXIA

Artificial Atmosphere 95 Per Cent Oxygen Called Best Method Yet Known-Doctors Breathe Gas to Test Cure.

New York .- Scientists of Yale university, who have been asked by the American Gas association to discover some means of reducing accidental deaths by asphyxiation, have developed a new technique for rescuing persons overcome by gas and are alsoexperimenting with warning odors to mix with gas in order to make escaping fumes detected far more quickly than at present.

The most efficient warning odor so far developed is a substance called mercaptan. Dr. Yandell Henderson of Yale who, with Prof. Howard W. Haggard, has been in charge of these investigations, said that mercaptan had an odor closely resembling that of the skunk, and that objections had been made against its use, in spite of its admitted high efficiency. One drop of the substance, which can be made synthetically from coal tar, is said to be sufficient to diffuse a powerful warning odor throughout the Grand Central terminal. Because of the enormous volume of gas used in this city any substance suited for the purpose of giving far and wide the alarm Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 11—Trees of leaking gas must be capable of communicating a sharp odor to an enormous volume of air or gas. When he was reminded that a slight odor of gas often hung about a gas jet or stove, Doctor Henderson said:

"In good modern apparatus, there should be no trouble of that kind. If of digging, packing and its de- thing strong enough to be noticed at

"In fact, a large proportion of accidental fatalities are due to obviously defective fixtures, chiefly cheap, badly made, old, worn, cracked, loose tubing between the gas jet and stores or burners of various sorts. This is not a matter over which gas companies can exercise any control."

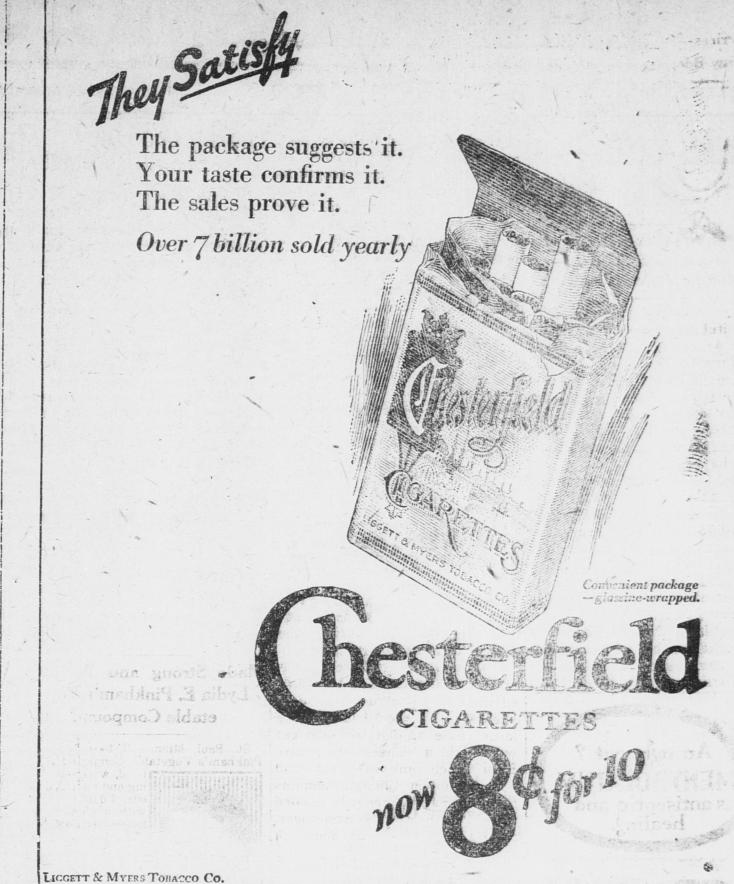

The experiments of the Yale scientists were reported as establishing the value of the administration to sufferers from gas poisoning of an artificial atmosphere composed of 5 per cent carbon dioxide and 95 per cent oxygen. The carbon dioxide in the human system, it is alleged, automatically regulates the action of the lungs. Carried by the blood to brain centers, controlling the breathing apparatus, the carbon dioxide stimulates breathing. Gas poisoning upsets this automatic control, because the carbon dioxide which is breathed by the victim has a chemical effect, destroying much of the carbon dioxide normally in the bloodstream. The sufferer, therefore, quits breathing and, as his system is deprived of oxygen, he becomes asphyxiated.

Doctors Henderson and Haggard and others voluntarily allowed themselves to be rendered unconscious by gas in order to prove the value of their carbon dioxide and oxygen mixture. Breathing these substances from tanks, in which they were compressed. they were speedily restored, without the ordinary after-effects of asphyxiation, according to their reports.

After discussing the other methods and explaining the carbon-dioxide and oxygen treatment, the report con-

"The point cannot be too strongly emphasized that for treatment to be effective it must be applied at the earliest possible moment after the victim is discovered and must remove the carbon monoxide from his blood as soon as possible."

Beautiful Reception

Rarely even for a private entertainment has the Masonic Temple looked lovelier or more festive than it did on Friday evening when its doors were opened to everyone sufficiently interested to come to the reception that was arranged by the Health and Welfare League to afford an opportunity for Miss Quinn to meet the peoples of Richmond and the county and for them to meet her. In every available space great bowls or baskets of flowers were placed; in each of the many windows

162.34 ACRE FARM

This farm is being sold for the purpose of closing the partnership between Duncan and Wagers.

LOCATION

Located in Madison county, 10 miles from Richmond, 1 mile from Bybeetown on the Irvine pike. Remember this—"Right on the Pike," and close to one of Madison county's best high schools at Waco, Ky. This is your opportunity to buy a good farm and send your children to school where they can be well educated and live at home with you.

DESCRIPTION OF THIS FARM

IMPROVEMENTS-8-room house and a good one, cistern on back porch, fine orchard, good garden, garage or carriage house, good out buildings of all kinds, stock barn, well fenced and well watered.

THIS FARM OFFERED IN TWO TRACTS, THEN AS A WHOIE

TRACT NO. 1-Improvements and 72 27-100 acres of land.

TRACT NO. 2-90 7-100 acres, unimproved, 7-acre tobacco barn, beautiful building site on this tract.

This farm lies well and plenty of good corn and tobacco land available for cutivation. This year's crops will speak for the quality of the land. There are 3,00 Ocedar posts on this farm. Think what they will bring you. Look at this farm and take everything into consideration - improvements, quality of land, high school, long pike frontage of farm, and last but not least, the "Location"—in two miles of Waco, a thriving little town with banking facilities, churches, stores, garage. My contract with Wagers & Duncan calls for an absolute sale with out reserve, by bid or limit. Somebody is going to buy a farm at the high dollar.

"You make the price—we make the deed." Terms made known on day of sale. Possession given January 1, 1922.
